LADDER CLIMB UP-Felicia Farr's a gal who, like cream, will rise to the top. At least her agent hopes so. Felicia's helping herself to a sombrero during a brief break in an action movie filmed on location near Jackson, Wyo.

THE DOG WATCH—The master of this dachshund left specific instructions for him to chase away anyone coming near his motorcycle. The owner then went off to a soccer match in Frankfurt, Germany. Sure enough, one of those nosy dogs came by to see what was going on and, like a good watch dog, he chased the inquisitive interloper.

PEOPLE KEEP OUT-This playpen at the Basel, Switzerland, zoo is reserved for flamingos only. In case any human doesn't know about it, he can read the sign. Zoo officials tacked up sign, which, translated, means, "Entrance For Flamingos Only."

BABY NEEDS HER BOTTLE—This kitten ordinarily is rather on the tame side, but that doesn't apply to meal time. She forgets her handler and her manners in Tucson. Ariz.

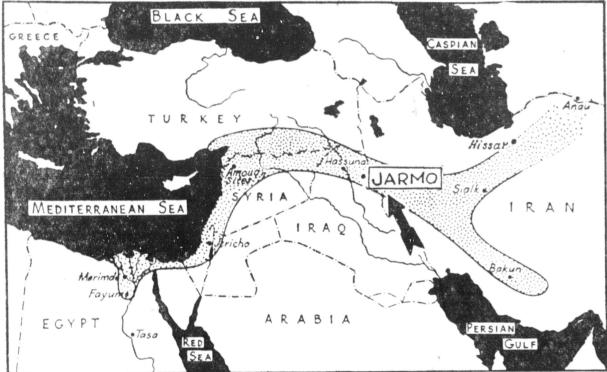

THEY'RE GETTING A TANNING—In Washington, D. C., the giveaway craze turns to suntans as two young beauties go about promoting a local movie house. Pearce Young (left) and Haaz McNamara apply the sun lamps to S/Sgt. Reid Ross as others wait.

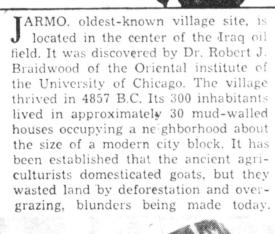

DOG SLED NEEDED HERE-Kurt Mayer and his children, Marie (right), and Pat, bid a temporary farewell to their 13 dogs-eight of them week-old puppies-after their car broke down in Washington. The dogs will be put up in an animal shelter until the car is fixed. Entire family is heading eventually for a home in Greensboro, Vt.
